3 DIFFERENT CALCULATORS - BUILT IN!

This tip will save you a bundle of time if you need to do quick scientific calculations...

One of the “less documented” features of Apple built in calculator is that there are 3 distinct calculator modes. These modes can be cycled through by pressing the command-1, command-2 and command-3 keys.

The first calculator is the default calculator you get when you initially launch the calculator app.

The second calculator is a scientific calculator that give you many different scientific functions.

The third calculator is a programming calculator that converts between hex, oct and dec.
